The Final Pat's PEACE

With Pat's move to North Carolina, in accordance with our VLGMA by-laws, the Nominating Committee was responsible for recommending to the VLGMA Officers someone to fill the unexpired term of President. The Officers were then to agree on a successor and have the decision ratified by the VLGMA Board. This has all been done and I am pleased to announce that I will be stepping back into the role of President for the remainder of this year. This will allow each of the other officers to complete their terms this year before moving up in a typical fashion next year.

Dear Seniors,

I have a problem that we all face on a regular basis. And I think I know the book answer to the question, but struggle with what to do in real life. It is election season, and of course, there is a candidate (or current elected) that likes to explain why they are running by throwing others "under the bus." While I know that as a manager, I should keep my chin up and my mouth shut about the personal attacks, my question is regarding the incorrect information. What do you do when there are lies that are being told in the campaign, and being used to cudgel the governing body or staff? Do you confront the misinformation in some way? How do you set the record straight? I feel like the book answer is to keep quiet and let things play out, but in the meantime, staff has hurt feelings and I don't want them to feel like I don't care.

Sincerely,

I wish the truth would hurry up and get here
