Tim's Thoughts Co-Leadership

As leaders, many of us naturally think about our leadership role with ourselves out front and center. It may stem from the responsibility we assume for our organizations, our staff, and the best use of our limited resources. While that view is not wrong, it is also not accurate. As leaders, we know that we can't do it alone. Sharing leadership with a trusted partner or with individuals around you not only help to cultivate an environment where everyone feels empowered to create successful results but also builds resiliency and inclusion into an organization.

Sunset Delight

A stillness begins to grow
as attachment to the day lets go replacing the noise of busyness
with the silence of emptiness.

Darkness brings comfort and peace,
the freedom of total sensory release;
a holy instant to completely relax
from the mind's demanding grasp.

Awareness of a vast stillness within
as the noise of thoughts grow dim.
Waiting, listening until from afar,
the glow of dancing, radiant stars.

Beneath the ocean, beyond the sky
in this silent emptiness, abide.
Outside time and space, a glimpse of an unknowable Presence.

Let each sunset offer you,
a heavenly view.
